What is Generative AI?

AI chatbots have revolutionized the landscape since the launch of ChatGPT in 2022. This innovative technology has created new opportunities for small and medium-sized businesses (SMBs) to expand and attract organic attention.

Despite common misconceptions, ChatGPT does not learn from individual conversations. This means that sharing details about your business or personal experiences does not alter what the AI communicates to others. Each interaction is customized specifically for you. So, how does ChatGPT gather insights about your business? It relies on two main sources.

The first source is training data. Organizations like OpenAI collect vast amounts of information from the internet to train the AI, but this data does not cover every topic and has a cut-off period (typically 4–6 months depending on the model).

The second source is web searching. This is where information about your business often emerges. Similar to Google, large language models (LLMs) utilize advanced search and reading technologies to assess a website's relevance based on the conversation. To increase the chances of your business being mentioned in LLM discussions, you should optimize your website for easy readability by machines. The most effective method is to ensure your site is highly accessible for users with Screen Readers. These tools can read special hidden information on your site aloud to visitors, and ChatGPT employs the same technology.

What Does OMNIUX Do Differently?

At OMNIUX, we stand out by focusing on AI-powered improvements that enhance essential web performance metrics. Our goal is to make websites user-friendly and easy to navigate by improving accessibility, using clear HTML, and incorporating JSON-LD data formats. This approach ensures our digital marketing efforts not only attract users but also meet top usability standards. By leveraging these technologies, we create a smooth experience that builds trust and loyalty, helping brands succeed online.

We know how this technology works. After developing our own AI tools, we've pinpointed the best tactics to increase your business's visibility in language model responses. This strategy, often referred to as GEO, AEO, or AI-SEO, is similar to how Google indexes search results. We concentrate on the crucial elements of your website, making it simpler for language models like ChatGPT to grasp and quickly locate information.
